What a week this has been. Two snow days, Catholic Schools Week and well... you can fill in the blank with all your crazy activities. I know when things get off schedule for me it can be harder to get anything done, whether that be because I am not focusing on things like I do at work or I just want to sleep in a little later. But one thing to always remember is our Catholic Faith. We are so blessed to be Catholic. We are blessed to be able to send our children to Catholic School at an affordable price and we are beyond blessed to have a God who loves and cares for us. In light of Catholic School's Week, find a way to celebrate as a family. Ask about what your children learn different being in a Catholic School and find out, from their perspective, what makes it unique. I value and I'm so grateful that God allowed for me to receive a Catholic Education. Without it, I do not think I would be a sister and I often wonder if I would be as generous about life. So, enjoy the Catholic Faith and make a snowman for me. You can even put a veil on it! Have a great rest of the week and weekend!
God Bless you, Sr. Janelle
