A NOTE FROM OUR ASSISTANT PASTOR,

This Sunday’s Liturgy of the Word invites us to meditate on the Beatitudes (cf. Mt 5:1-12) which introduces us to the Sermon on the Mount which reveals God’s desire to lead men to happiness. I love all the beatitudes, but one in particular.

The first beatitude has always been my favorite one: “Blessed are the poor in spirit, for theirs is the kingdom of heaven” (Mk 5:3). This is an indispensable prerequisite in order to follow God’s way of life. With this meek spirit it becomes possible to master the rest of the qualities that Jesus lists and to understand God’s way for our lives.

The Greek word for “poor” is ptōchos, which is used to describe someone who is physically “destitute of wealth, influence, position, honors,” reduced to begging. This is the word used for the beggar Lazarus in the well-known parable (Luke 16:20-22) and also for the widow who gave her two mites to the temple treasury (Mark 12:41-44).

The poor in spirit are the Christians who do not rely on himself, on material wealth, are not fixed on his or her own opinions but realize that without God all we have and all we possess are mere hay. We realize that without God we are nothing...Jesus wants us to humbly accept that in and of ourselves, we are not enough. We try so, so hard to be self-sufficient and independent, as we sometimes believe the lie that those things are what make us strong and happy. But Accepting that there is One who knows us so well, and knows what we need and to open our hands, bow our heads, and say, “I can’t make it on my own” is to be “poor in spirit.”

Hence to know that more than anything we need Him, is to know God alone is my happiness and salvation. I pray that you will join me today in telling Him you need Him, not for a minute, or an hour, but always.

~Fr. Jude Asitha
