A Note from our Assistant Pastor...

Could You Imagine...

“For five years no one touched me? No one. Not one person. Not my wife. Not my child. Not my friends. No one touched me. What is common to you, I coveted. Handshakes. Warm embraces. A tap on the shoulder to get my attention. A kiss on the lips to steal a heart. Such moments were taken from my world. No one touched me. No one bumped into me. What I would have given to be bumped into, to be caught in a crowd, for my shoulder to brush against another’s. But for five years it has not happened. How could it? I was not allowed on the streets. Even the rabbis kept their distance from me. I was not permitted in my synagogue. Not even welcome in my own house. I was untouchable. I was a leper. And no one touched me.” ¹ Lucado, M. (1998). Just like Jesus (pp. 29–30). Nashville: Word Publishing.

Could you imagine how different your world would be if that man were you? In the Book of Leviticus, we hear that the mosaic law is built upon the idea that some things in this world are “unclean,” which means that some things in this world do not belong in the presence of God. In the ancient world, holiness had to be protected from those things that were unholy – like sin. If someone contracted a skin disease or other ailment, it was not seen as a result of poor hygiene but a manifestation of their sin. So those with leprosy had to be isolated from the Temple and from the People of God. Simply touching someone in such a state would render you unclean and unfit for worshiping God, at least until you had the chance to be purified.

However, once Jesus walks onto the scene, we come to realize that He sees our world differently. Jesus has a way of turning everything upside down. What should be avoided, He touches. What should remain unclean, He restores. God comes to the sinner. Jesus does not want our holiness to be defined by isolation and fear – our Savior wants our holiness to be defined by His active presence in our life, despite our past mistakes!

Could you imagine what it would have been like to receive that healing touch...to come in contact with your God...to have your life handed back to you? Well, there is no need to imagine – you can experience it for yourself! In honor of the Lenten Season, make some time to go to Confession and hear those words for yourself: “Be made clean!”

May God Bless You All,
 Fr. Kovar
